From the technology we build to the incidents we report, we put you in control of your own solution.

Tailored threat intelligence data

When the intelligence collection and reporting is shaped to closely reflect your organisation's operations, you get a more useful and precise insight into the global security landscape, and it's impact on your people, assets and reputation.

✔ Act faster to better protect your assets

✔ Enhance your situational awareness

✔ Better understand the impact of what's happening

✔ More efficiently allocate your resources

✔ Improve your team's performance

✔ Save time, money, and in some cases, lives

That's why every new client receives an Intelligence Collection Plan as part of their onboarding process.

Guided by your needs, we use military intelligence doctrine to put tried and tested open-source collection methods into action.

Fused with datamining tools and a growing crowdsourced network, we deliver balanced, timely and actionable data that will help you make better decisions.

ANALYSIS

Intelligence goes beyond social media. And useful intelligence requires both multiplicity and balance. That's why our collection methods span across so many sources and medium, more than most other providers in fact.

Not all information is intelligence. We follow tried and tested military methodology to ensure relevance and context, as well as structure our data in away that's easily interpreted for a quick response. Providing you with a complete and comprehensive picture, every time.

Misinformation and disinformation plagues the internet. But you'll never waste time, resource of money fact checking false information. With us, each incident is moderated and verified by our team, providing you with reliable, accurate intelligence globally.

Constantly harnessing new technology and evolving our collection methods to ensure you stay one step ahead. We'll never remain stagnant or stop innovating, meaning we're a long-term partner for growth and keeping up with the ever-changing threat landscape.

With a team of military trained analysts, we provide more than just news. As part of our incident processing, we add actionability through analysis and interpretation of events to help your team better understand an incident.

You have your data, now you need to visualise it.

Already have a platform or interface? We can feed your tailored intelligence to you seamlessly as an API.
